BORING FOR HONEY.

Been for Ages, Had Swarmed in a Ken tucky Binff.

SPECIAL TO THE WORLD, 1 LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 26. -A successful boring for honey has been made in North Tennessee. For many years awarms of bees have been noticed by boatmen at Fox Bluff on the Cumberland River, near Franklin, Ky. The bluff is 170 feet high and the river's channel runs directly under it. The near the centre of the bluff, and the opening could not be reached from above or below without great danger of being stung to death. As the bees had never been robbed it was believed a large amount of honey is stored in the cliff.

Longstreet, After Getting Off Last. Made a Fine Race and Won Easily.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE TRACK, June 27.-Though the weather was fine the attendance here to-day is about the smallest of the meeting. The track was in good shape, and the racing considerably above the average. Strideaway and Longstreet opened equal favorites, and they stayed that way until just before the bell rang, when a big commission from the Dwyer Brothers came into the ring which drove Longstreet's price the ring which drove Longstreet's price down to even money.

He ran a great race. After getting off last he gradually cut down his field, and finally won a good race in fast time.

The second race was won by Conrad. Drake, who rode Peter, was thrown, and had a narrow escape with his life. He was examined, and the doctor says that no bones were broken.

Padishah had an éasy thing of it in the race for three-year-olds. Bergen's riding of Polsom was censured, as he never made a move with him until it was too late.
